WE HONOR...

"A Teacher Affects Eternity; He Can Never

"Education -- a debt from present to future generations."

For a combined total of three-quarters of a century, Mrs. Nell Braswell and Mrs. Julia Swift have epitomized the best of education—the master teacher. During that time, thousands of young people have responded to the gracious kindness of Mrs. Swift and the warm-heartedness of Mrs. Braswell. These two teachers have devoted not only time and energy but also love to those under their tutelage.

"And gladly teach"

Enthusiasm and vitality have characterized the thirty-five year teaching career of Mrs. Nell Braswell. Her eagerness for teaching has brought forth eager responses from her students, and their youthfulness has kept her young. She has led her students through the intricacies of math and science to the enjoyment of understanding.

...AND SALUTE

Tell Where His Influence Stops.”

They have nurtured a respect for knowledge, a concern for one's fellow man, and a belief that life is good. Years may dim the impressions of Latin verbs and interest rates, but the memories of two teachers who cared will forever be deeply inscribed in the hearts of all associated with Madison High School.

“Vidi, Veni, Vinci”

The great Caesar conquered by force; Mrs. Julia Swift has conquered with gentleness and serenity. Her career has encompassed thirty-seven years of dedicated service; the last eight have enriched Madison High School students with knowledge of Latin and English. All who have known her will remember the graciousness of Mrs. Swift.

so a very prosperous high school freshmen who has accomplished very much in the short time he's been here.
Here's to the bands very prominate future and to you.
Best of luck always. It's been swell knowing you.

The Alma Mater

Standing proudly there before us—
With your glory all around;
Truth and justice be your watchword,
And may you in love abound.

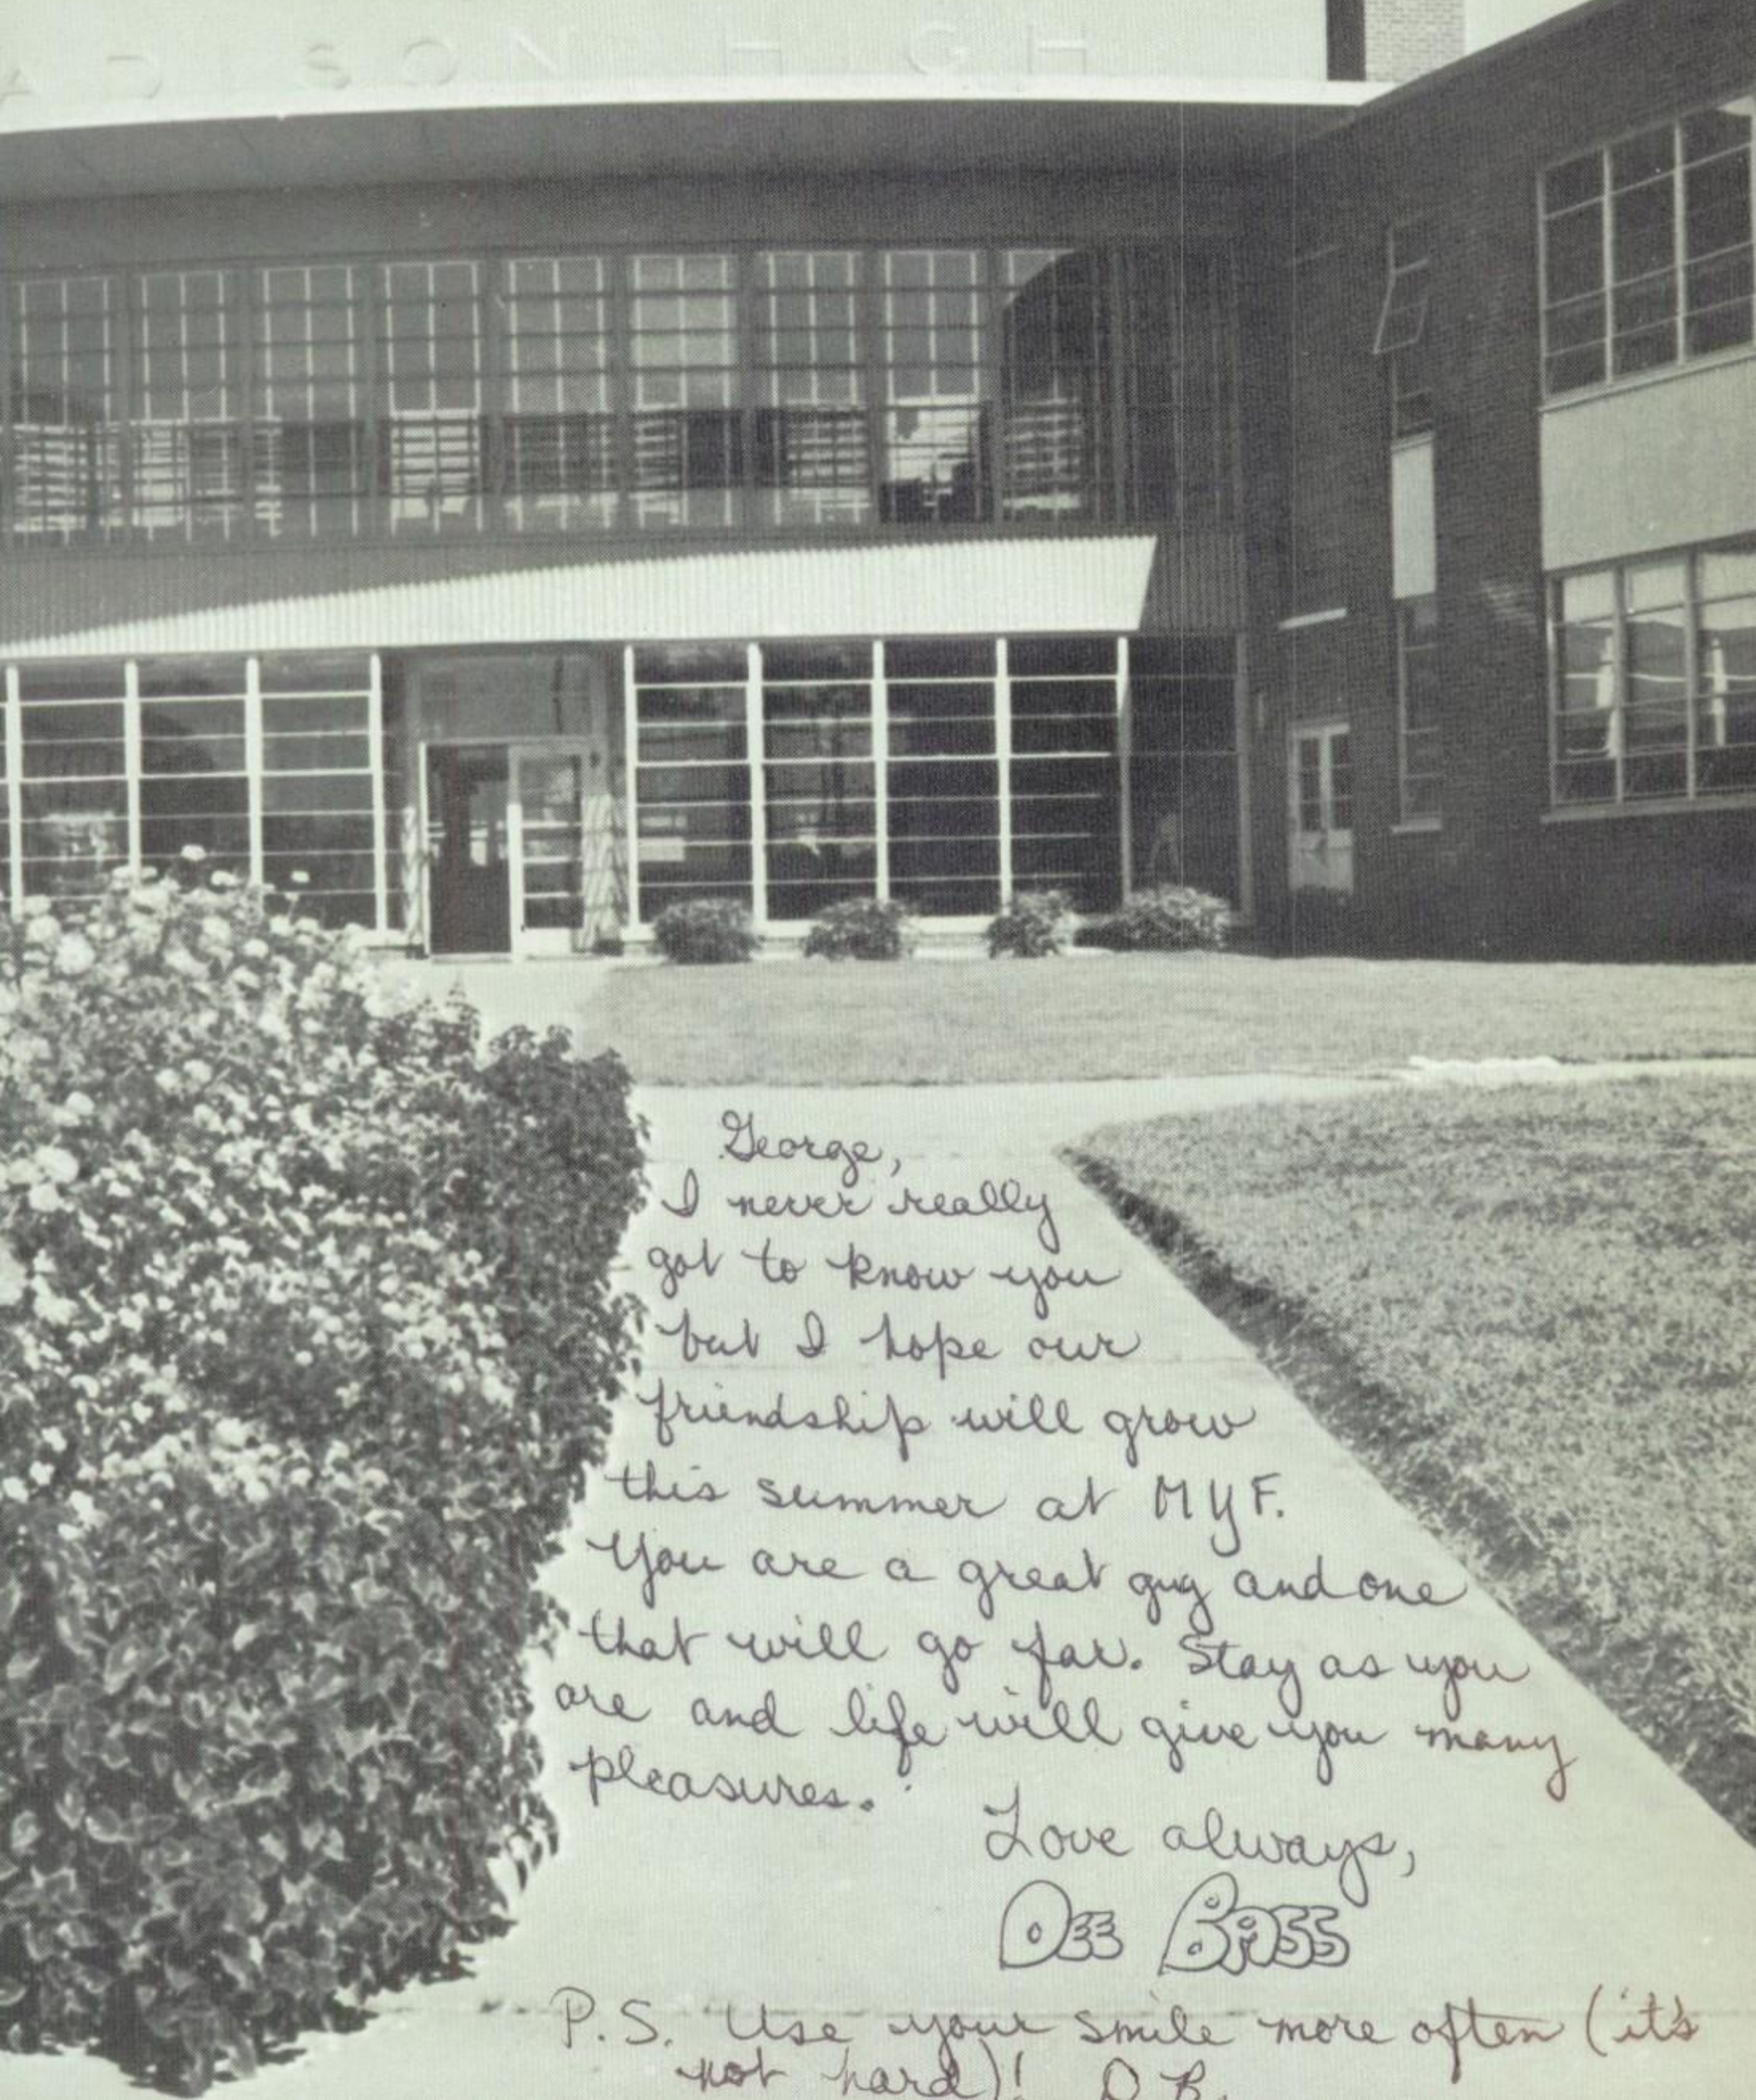

Open wide your doors of knowledge,
Welcome all who enter here.
Gain in wisdom, joy and honor—
Stand for all we hold most dear.

Chorus:
Madison High, we love you dearly;
Proudly do we hail your name.
May your name go on before us,
Into life's great hall of fame.

BEST OF LUCK TO GREAT GUY. WE HAD A LOT OF FUN
IN AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS THIS YEAR, DIDN'T WE. ALTHOUGH THERE WAS A LOT OF GAS WARFARE USED WE STILL MADE. SEE YA AROUND.

IN CHRISTIAN

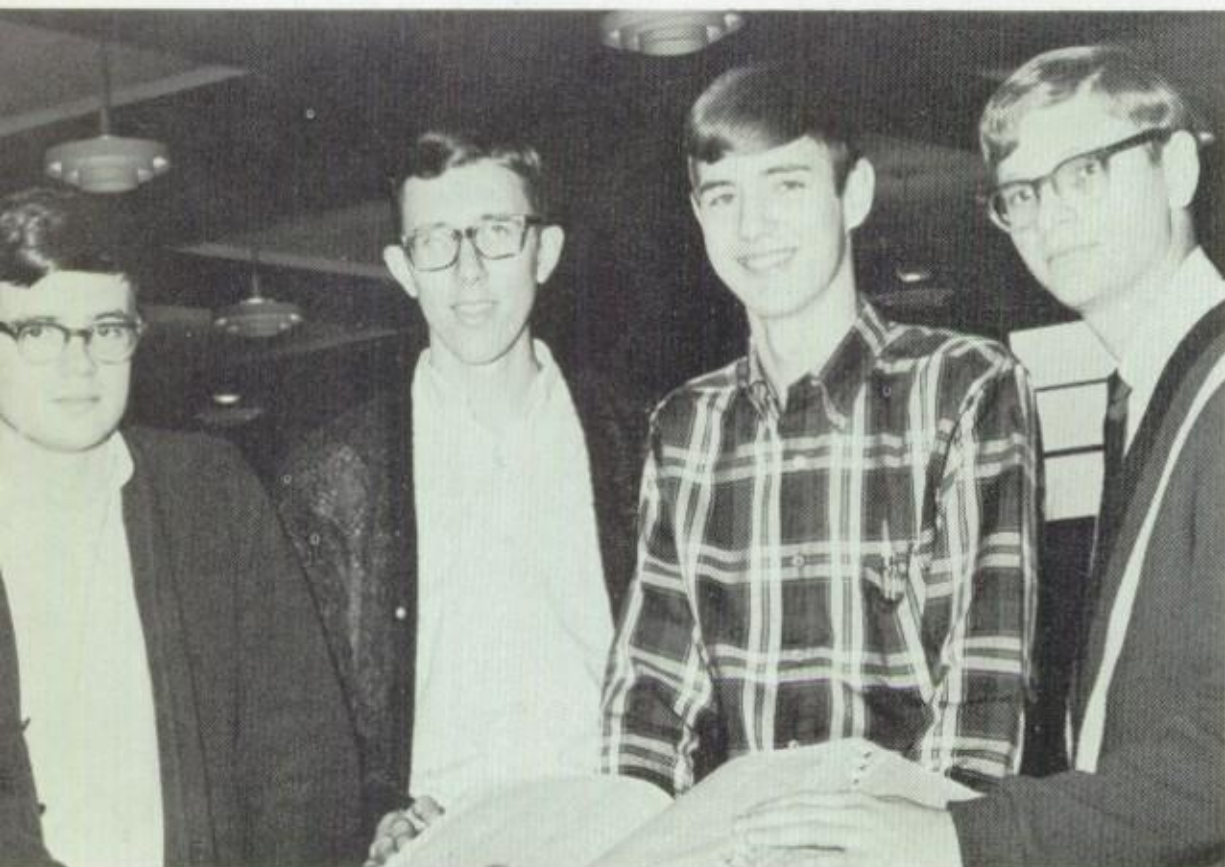

George,
I never really got to know you but I hope our friendship will grow
this summer at MYF.
You are a great guy and one that will go far. Stay as you are and life will give you many pleasures.

Love always,

OBB BOBB

P.S. Use your smile more often (it's not hard)! O.B.

SCHOLARSHIP

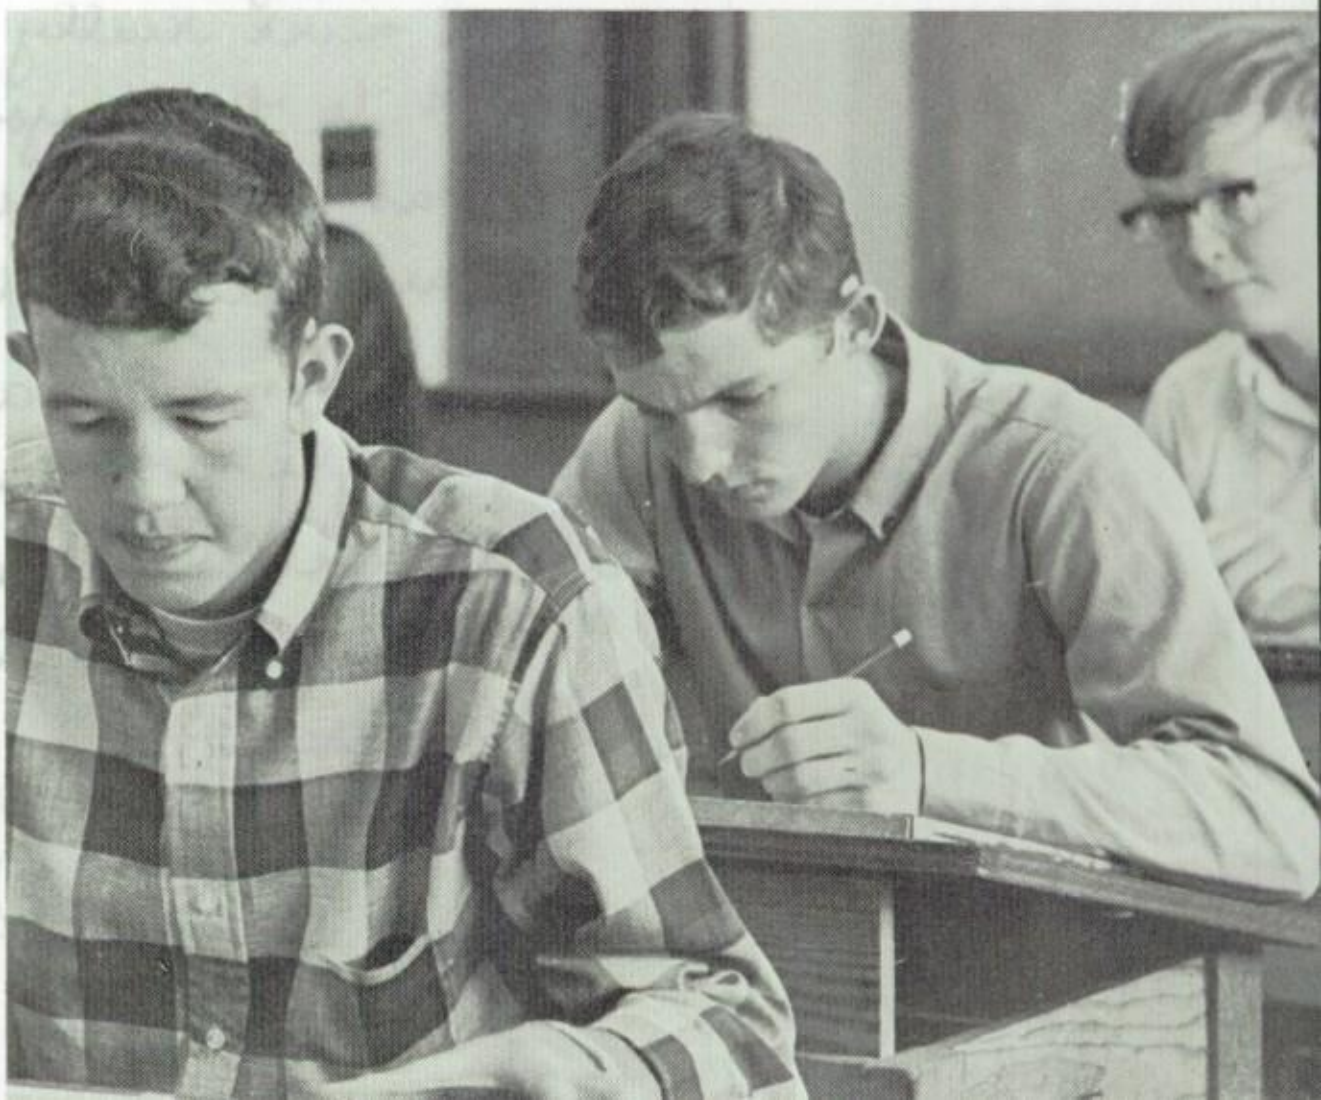

Merit Scholarship Finalists, Jim Baxter, Dennis Duke, Leon Johnson, and Stephen Smoot, honored Madison with their achievement.

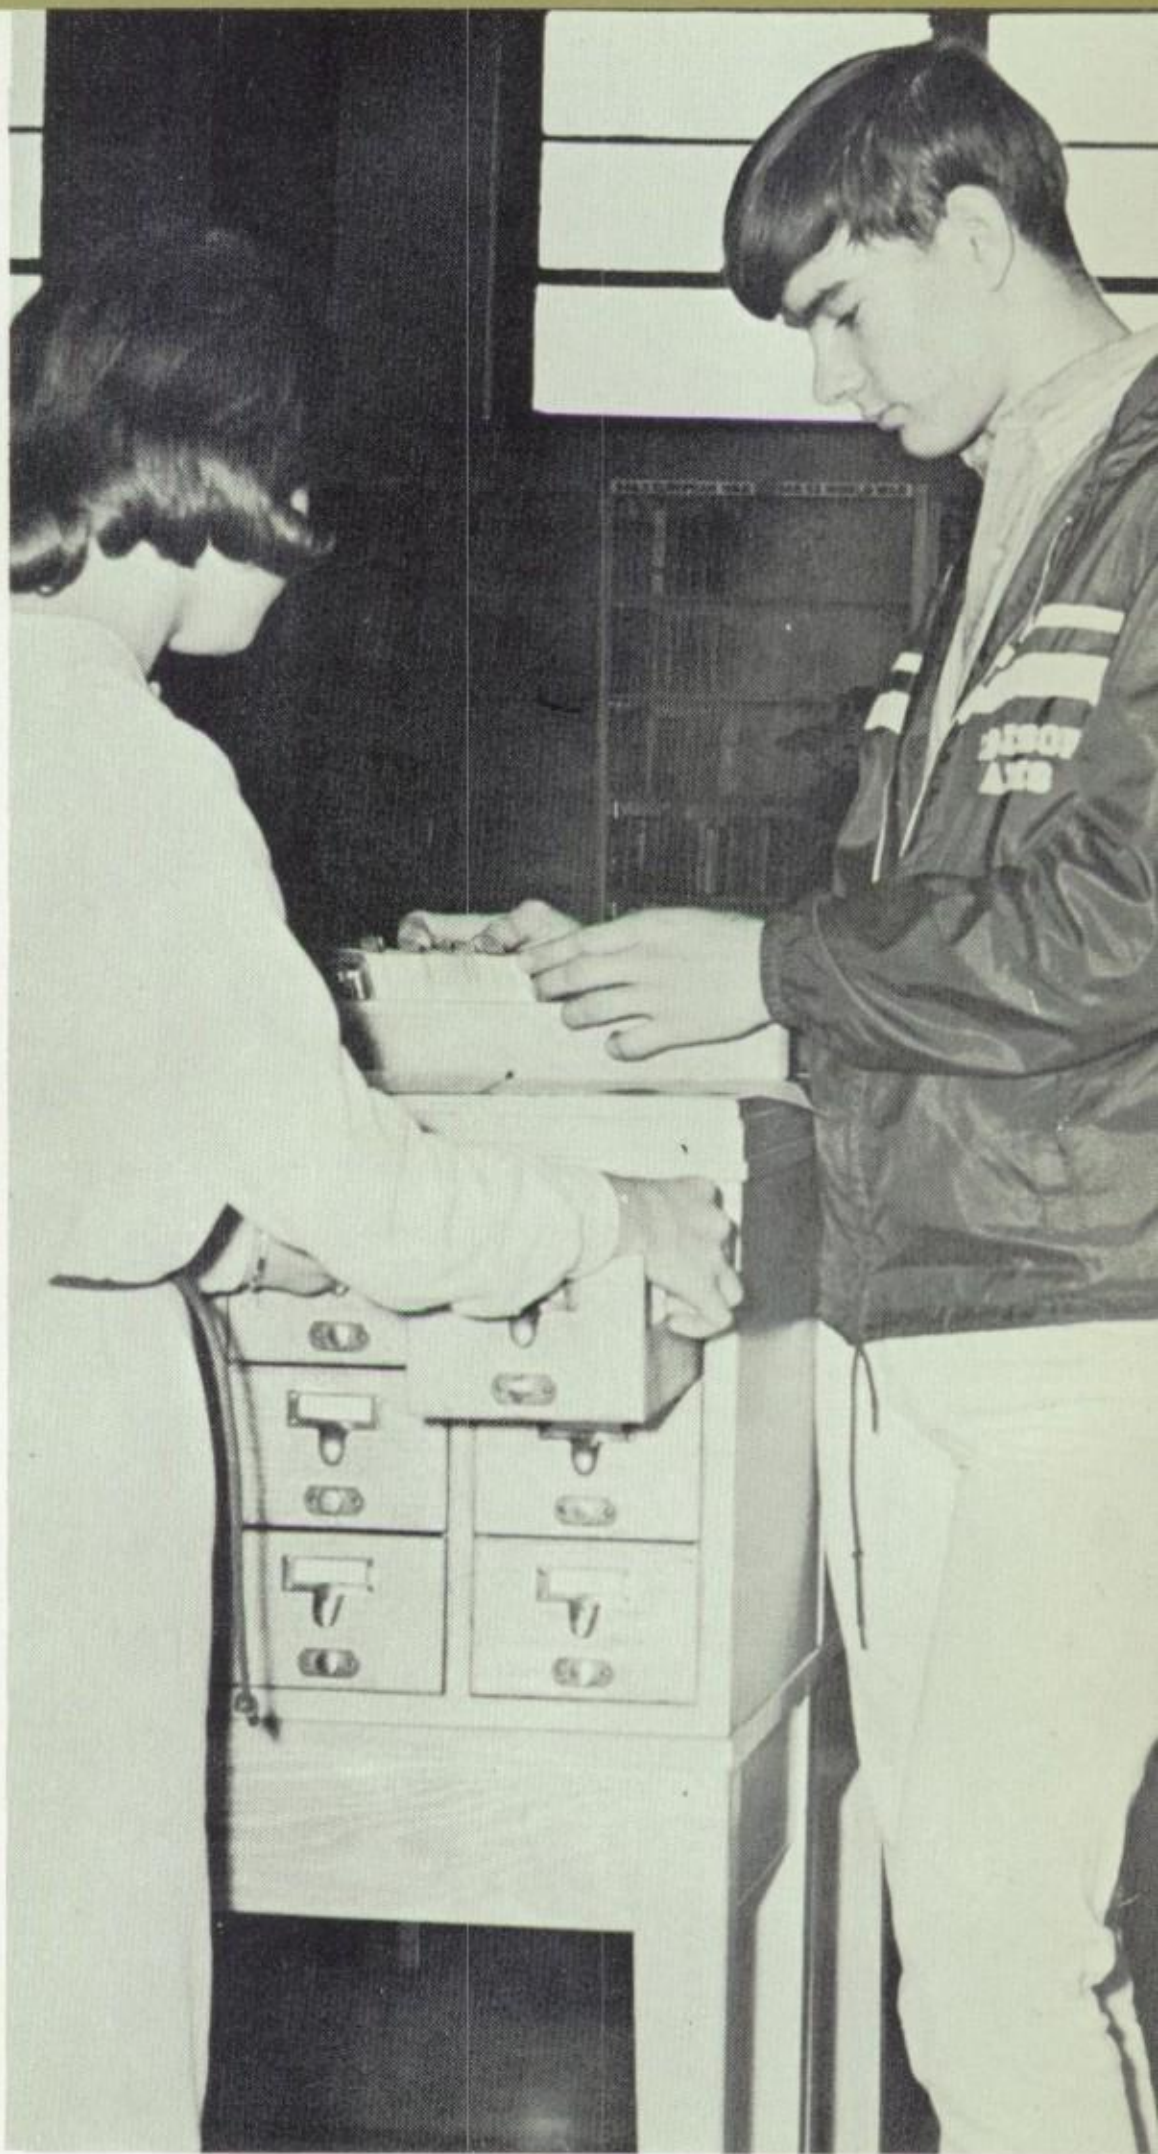

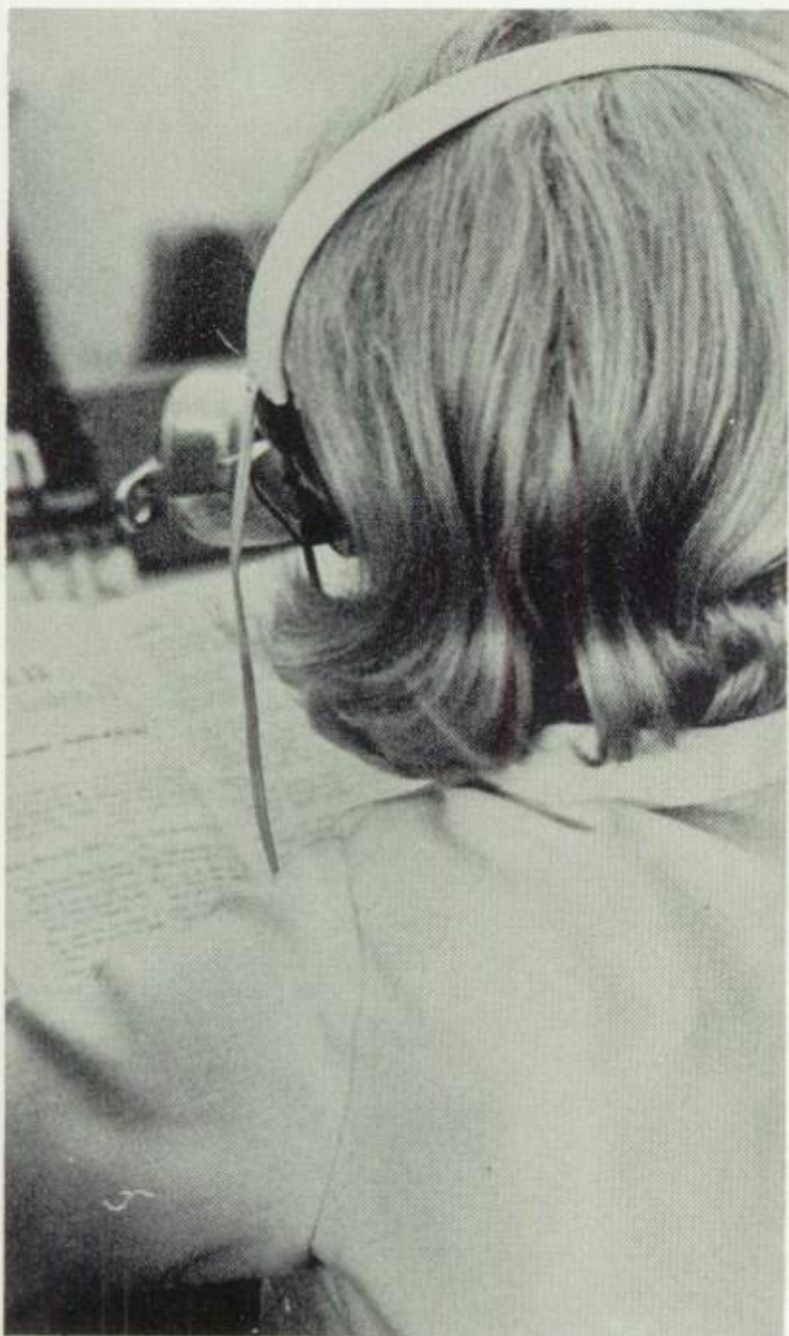

Books, students, teachers—each of these is only a part of the institution known as a school. Without the uniting force of scholarship each will remain separate and apart, lacking that element which enables M. H. S. to “. . . open wide its doors of knowledge . . .” and impart wisdom to those within its halls.

Best wishes to a really Great guy. I know you will really be an important addition to the band next year. Lots of luck. Jim Baxter Concentration—the basis of all scholarship.

En 1965-1966 una estudiante de las lenguas—en 1985-1986 una senora de importancia en el mundo.

The library—an abundant source of knowledge.

Senior Mike Brown, recipient of the Sportsmanship Award, accepts the trophy.

Beat Donelson Week at its best.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The Spirit of M. H. S. is intangible and invisible, but it is both seen and felt in the lives of all who are a part of Madison. Athletes, well-drilled in the fundamentals of a sport and in the ability to accept victory or defeat, serve as the primary focal point for all who would say with great pride, "Madison High . . . Proudly do we hail your name."

Hard-working cheerleaders—an essential part of sportsmanship.

On Ye Rams! Make those baskets!

LEADERSHIP

Santa's helpers silhouetted against a December sky.

Opportunities for leadership exist in many places—the classroom, the club meeting, the athletic field. Participation in such campus activities broadens the scope of each individual student, making him an instrument for uniting students, teachers, and administrators, so that all who walk in the halls of M. H. S. may "gain in wisdom, joy, and honor."

Honor Society tutor, Sherryl Midgett, explains the mysteries of the subjunctive to Peggy Hendricks,

FOREWORD

Only in the lines of the Alma Mater can we as students express our feelings for Madison High School. The building—"Standing proudly there before us . . .," the watchwords—" . . . Truth and justice . . .," the friendliness— . . . "Welcome all who enter here . . .," the memories—" . . . stand for all we hold most dear."

The RAM Staff presents the 1966 yearbook with its panorama of school life and the hope that the name of Madison High School may truly" . . . go on before us, Into life's great hall of fame."

The Student Council of Madison High School is an organization dedicated to the improvement and betterment of our school. The council is the medium through which our students can participate in assisting our faculty and administration with decisions which affect the collective welfare of the students.

Student Council committees provide an analysis of particular areas of school life in an effort to determine how this might be changed to correct any existing flaws. The Council officers work closely with school officials to co-ordinate and plan activities and to represent the school at various functions.

Our council is an active one, sponsoring clubs, socials, assemblies, safety campaigns, welfare collections, and many other activities. Our council serves as Vice-President of the Nashville Inter-High and is represented each year at state and national student council conventions. The Student Council serves as the co-ordinator of student affairs and should be regarded as a vital organization in serving student needs.

PATRICIA BURROUGHS

Patricia Burroughs, a second year journalism student, nurtured the vital editorial page her senior year. Versatile in her interests, Trisha initiated a regular column entitled "Guidance Guidelines," instigated to inform students on everything from the ACT test to the draft situation.

Vice-president of the Quill and Scroll, Trish has an unusual writing ability, based on insight and a wide-reading background.

She represented Madison in the National Council of Teachers of English competition her junior year. She also attended the University of Tennessee workshop in 1965.

ANNE HARRIS

Anne Harris, a second year student, stepped ably into the position of literary editor. Highly creative, Anne excels in short story writing and poetry. She became a member of Quill and Scroll her junior year and is a member of the Honor Society. She exhibits a highly perceptive nature and has inspired those about her to do their best. Her chief characteristics as an editor have been "promptness" and "dependability."

DEBBY REED

Debby Reed came, saw, and conquered. "Sitting in" journalism class as a freshman and sophomore, Debby would have been eligible for Quill and Scroll her sophomore year had the national standards admitted tenth graders. She has been a zesty feature editor and will be co-editor of the RAM PAGE 1966-67.

Sophomore Lindy Lewis has set a new record for editing. Although he is not enrolled in journalism, he was selected to edit the Lamb Page. Lindy had published in one issue of the RAM PAGE six pictures he had taken and fifty column inches of written copy! Lindy will be sports editor for the RAM PAGE next year.

LINDY LEWIS

The Ram Page

Vol. 13

Madison High School

1966

For the first time in its twelve year history the RAM PAGE published ten issues. Through the courtesy of the administration and various teachers, the school newspaper was privileged to "scoop" the announcement of the Homecoming Queen and her court, the sportsmanship recipient, the DAR and Civitan award winners, and Miss Madison.

Last summer four members of the staff attended a week-long training institute for high school journalists at the University of Tennessee.

To increase the news coverage the Junior High page, The LAMB PAGE, was initiated. Sales surpassed any previous year in spite of a slight decrease in enrollment. The RAM PAGE chooses to believe this is the result of its earnest effort to inform, entertain, and educate its readers.

Jerry Boyd, Editor-in-Chief

When Jerry Boyd was just a sophomore, he occupied a seat in the journalism class. His junior year, he moved briefly into the sports editor's slot and from there to the position of news editor. As editor-in-chief his senior year, Jerry proved an outstanding writer in every department, as well as an observant leader. He has presided over the Quill and Scroll Society this year.

In 1965 he was elected a vice-president of the Tennessee High School Press Association. Jerry has a natural ability for sports writing, based on an extensive knowledge of every sport and an ability to analyze a game, a player, or a team effort.

JERRY BOYD

ELAINE BASS

Elaine Bass and Larry Gillem, girls' and boys' sports editors, have manifested an unusual insight into Madison's sports program throughout the year. Both are first year journalists, yet they have handled themselves like veterans. Both were also eligible for the Quill and Scroll Society by mid-term first year in journalism.

Elaine has possessed a shrewd sports knowledge which she has candidly offered to the students through "Skirting the Sports." Her interest in journalism prompted her to attend the UT workshop in 1965. A member of the Honor Society, Elaine has been a valuable asset to the newspaper. Her precision and concern for detail sparked her reputation as an astute editor.

Larry, a member of the football team and Fellowship of Christian Athletes, has expended a tremendous effort to present the total sports picture. His contagious enthusiasm has added great worth to this position on the staff. Larry has actively participated in nearly every available sport, thus enabling him to not only know the players but to know their strengths and weaknesses. Amiable and friendly, he helps maintain a high morale among staff members.

LESLIE CUNNINGHAM

Leslie Cunningham and Jamie Caldwell have worked untiringly to maintain a strong advertising department. They have compiled in each issue of the RAM PAGE approximately 200 inches of advertising copy.

Both are second year journalists and members of Quill and Scroll. They have realized the vital part advertising plays in financing the school newspaper and have respected this awesome task.

Leslie has kept the records straight, billed the advertisers and gone to great lengths to strengthen the bond between the

FRIEDA WHITE

Frieda White is a veteran of the days "before journalism" --class, that is. She wrote for the RAM PAGE as a freshman but was unable to join the class as a sophomore because of over-crowded conditions. Persistently, she enrolled as a junior, and her senior year has been news editor. Frieda served as secretary of the Quill and Scroll Society.

Her vocational interest lies in the field of journalism; her special ability on the RAM PAGE has been with news writing. She has displayed the enthusiasm and curiosity necessary to insure her success in her chosen career.

DARLENE WALROND

Darlene Walrond, a member of Quill and Scroll and a second year journalist, has been an indispensable staff member. A triple threat staffer, she has proven to be an excellent typist, enthusiastic feature writer, and "nosey" news-hound. Darlene has had a "unifying" effect wherever she has been. Interested in people, she possesses a willingness to work and a sincere dedication to do service for her school.

JAMIE CALDWELL

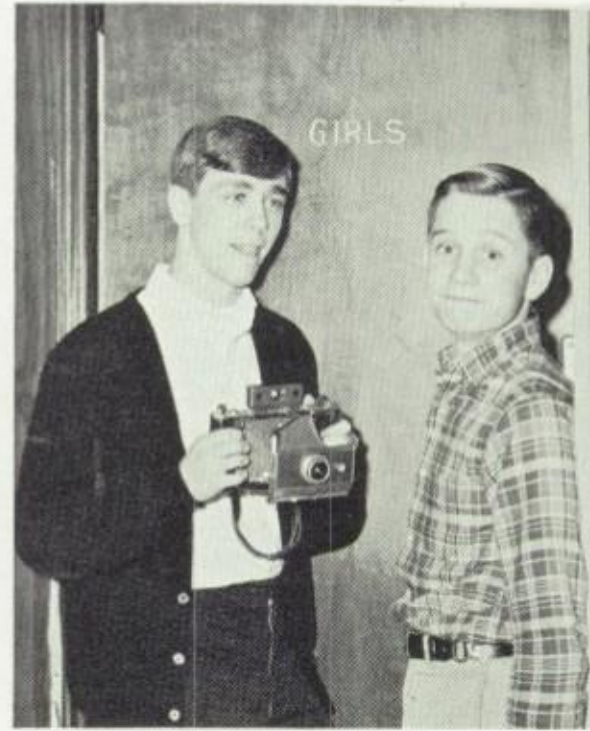

RAM PAGE and its advertisers. She has done designing and layout work, as well as writing ad copy. She gained much insight into advertising at the UT workshop in Knoxville last year.

Jamie, who has aspirations of doing advertising work in the future, has been a diligent layout editor. She has assigned ads to the various pages and sympathetically listened to the moaning of space-craving editors. Jamie has seen that exchange papers are mailed and has run urgent errands to pick up copy and supplies.

The National Forensic League stresses individual speaking ability, allows participation in interscholastic competition, and recognizes achievement by granting membership and awarding the four degrees of Merit, Honor, Excellence, and Distinction. These degrees are based on points earned in competition with students from other schools. In competition this year, Madison's Forensic Chapter has traveled from Nashville to Kentucky to Georgia to participate in many tournaments.

As well as stressing individual speaking ability, the National Forensic League emphasizes leadership. Students may lead discussion groups, assist in directing tournaments, address civic groups and audiences, and preside as the elected speaker of a student congress. This emphasis on leadership has produced many well-known leaders. Madison's membership rolls regularly include Student Council officers, class officers, and leaders of other organizations.

The National Honor Society is an organization which rewards scholastic achievement and sets a goal toward which students may aim. By having entrance requirements corresponding with national standards, the Society's members are honored at both the local and the national level.

In order to be accepted, a student must maintain a 2.5 average during the three previous semesters and must be approved by the school faculty. These requirements insure that members are strong in character as well as in scholarship. The Society is not actively engaged in the high school scene; rather, it is an organization which stands for the initials on the NHS emblem: Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

Honor Society officers maintain their high averages under Mrs. Dillon's watchful eye.

Writing is a creative process whether it be a short story, or copy for the school yearbook or newspaper. The Quill and Scroll Society was formed two years ago at Madison High to encourage and honor those students who gave part of themselves to publications. Since the Society is an international one and one which requires high academic standards, the honor that comes with membership is extraordinary.

Members originate primarily through the RAM and the RAM PAGE; however, anyone who has shown excellence in the field of writing may be considered a fellow journalist.

Although an active program of projects is not the ultimate goal of the local Society, the Quill and Scroll this past year promoted interest among students in entering the Belmont Wordfest.

The National Thespian Society, Chapter 2673, now in its second year at Madison High School, is an honorary organization dedicated to the performing arts. Drama, comedy and tragedy are given equal emphasis as an individual endeavors to become a troupe member in good standing.

The Thespian Society boasts its own magazine and seven hundred and twenty affiliated chapters throughout the United States and in Europe. Local organizations are governed by a troupe president and vice-president, as well as a secretary and treasurer chosen by popular election.

As the year hurries by, Madison members find themselves involved in a number of various activities. Produced this season by troupe #2673 were the plays "Poison, Passion, and Petrification" by George Bernard Shaw, and John Steinbeck's famous "Of Mice and Men."

LIBRARY LASSIES

The new library opened for service November 29, 1965, with a formal ribbon cutting ceremony. The library has all new modern furniture in Maplewood-Sable-Tan finish and draperies over all windows. The library seating, pamphlet room, magazine room, work room and Mrs. Wiley's office were enlarged and an audio-visual room added. There are six individual study tables in the main reading room for the convenience of students who wish to concentrate.

The library is open an extra hour as an additional service to students. The library staff co-operates with the student tutoring program sponsored by the Honor Society and has made the pamphlet room available for use when requested.

Five LIBRARY LASSIES attended the M.T.A.-S.L.A. conference at Austin Peay State College winning the revolving trophy for the second consecutive year. The trophy is awarded at the spring conference to the school which enters a scrap book depicting the best all-around library program in Middle Tennessee.

RAMS BOMB BURROS

The excitement of the season opener gave Madison's Rams the spirit for victory as they charged onto the Burro field. September 10, 1965, saw the mighty Orange and White defeat a much larger Hillsboro team 26-14.

Ram quarterback Alex Beavers hit 2 of 9 passes for 72 yards and ran for two Ram touchdowns to lead the Madison attack. Bob Chaffin ran for a 75-yard TD and sophomore Reed Hawkins, with a five yard run, added another Ram touchdown. Mike McDonald, junior kicking specialist, converted two extra point attempts to complete Madison's scoring.

The defense, out-weighted ten pound per man, had its hands full. All-City tackle Mike Head, Jerry Malone, Don Traylor, and Wade Shell led Madison's tough defense in the year's opening victory.

Quarterback: Alex Beavers

Center: Larry Gillem

Bob Chaffin charges through the Bobcat defense in a tough homecoming loss.

HOLSTON, RAM VICTIM

Ram quarterback, Alex Beavers, crashes through the Spartan defense for another score.

In the Ram's top offensive game of the season, one of Knoxville's leading football powers fell victim to the mighty Orange. Holston High invaded Madison's field only to lose a disappointing 38-0 decision.

Alex Beavers, whose passing attack led the Ram offense, scored on a one-yard plunge. The lanky quarterback completed 13 of 29 passes for 164 yards and three touchdowns. Scoring on the TD tosses were Mike Buchanan, Don Traylor, and Mike Brown. Fullback Reed Hawkins put the Rams on the scoreboard with a four-yard jaunt and capped the offensive effort by intercepting a Holston pass and returning it to the end zone.

Jim Pigue, Wade Shell, Daryl Hutchison, Harold Murff, and Jerry Malone held the tough Knoxville squad to only six first downs and no score.

Ends: Jerome Hooper, Mike Brown, Don Traylor, Mike Buchanan.

RAMS MISS NEAR UPSET

Glenciff's Colt field saw the fired-up Rams give the No. 5 team in Tennessee a big scare. The Colts, with possibly the largest team in the state, kicked a field goal, with 1:58 remaining, to steal the game from the upset-minded Rams. Glenciff, after missing three previous conversion attempts, kicked on a fourth down, nine yards to go situation and pulled the game out of the fire 21-20 with the first field goal kicked successfully against a Ram squad.

Madison's top ground gainers were Bob Chaffin and Reed Hawkins. Center Larry Gillem and John Sloan aided in key offense plays, while defensive standouts in the disappointing setback were Larry Deweese, Jim Norris, Harold Murff, and Mike Head.

This one-point victory by the Rams' opposition was the third such disappointment for the season. With two more points scored in each game against Overton, Glenciff, and MBA, the Rams would have possessed a 9-1 record and possibly the N.I.L. championship.

Guards-Linebacker: Randy Chance, Harold Murff, Jerry Malone

Reed Hawkins breaks through the tough Colt defense for a long gain.

RAMS STUN DONS

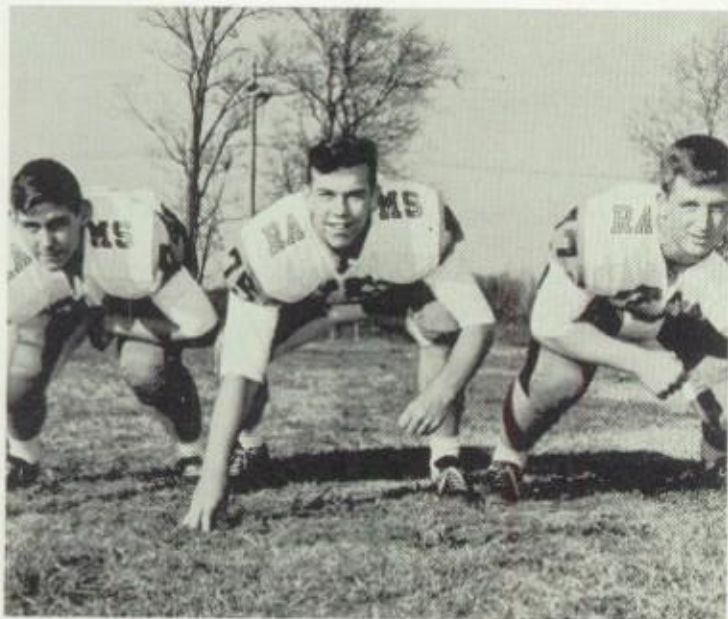

Bob Chaffin finds a gaping hole in the Don forward wall.

The Donelson Dons, ranked as one of the state's top teams, suffered their only defeat of the season as they bowed 20-19 to a determined Ram team.

The big Orange jolted the Dons in the first half as Robert Birdsong scored on a 3-yard run and Mike McDonald kicked the extra point.

Madison moved to the dressing room at intermission with a 7-0 lead, but Donelson came out ready to defend their perfect slate and scored three quick touchdowns. The Rams, down 19-7, then began a tremendous drive, sparked by a 44-yard kick-off return by Captain Jim Norris and the fine running of Forrest Pate and quarterback Alex Beavers. Birdsong climaxed the drive as he reached pay dirt for the second time on a one-yard jaunt. With only 1:42 left on the clock, the Rams executed a perfect on-sides kick and Norris fell on the ball at the Donelson 49. Cool and collected, Alex then proceeded to move the ball down the field, firing a 17-yard pass to Mike Buchanan for the tying TD. Mike McDonald booted the extra point for a well-deserved victory for the tremendous Rams.

Tackles: Joey Higgins, Don Webb, Jim Pigue

Even a small hole in the defense makes room for a Ram TD

With their best over-all effort of the season, the Madison Rams tripped the favored Ryan eleven with a crushing 20-0 victory over the Irish.

Harold Murff recovered a fumble in the first play of the second quarter and ran 43 yards for the first Big Orange touchdown. In the third quarter, the Rams relentlessly drove 54 yards, sending Bob Chaffin over for the second Ram tally. The final TD was set up when Jim Norris grabbed a fumble on the Ryan 41. Bob Chaffin closed out the night's scoring with a 6-yard jaunt to paydirt.

The Ram offense had 12 first downs with 236 yards rushing and passing in this big win over the visiting Irish. Outstanding among the Orange defensemen were Mike Head, Jerry Malone, Larry DeWeese, and Daryl Hutchinson.

Although the 1965-66 basketball team suffered a disappointing season as far as the number of games won and lost, the spirit of the team was excellent, representing Madison High School in the best possible way. Certainly anyone who can stay with the sport when the chips are down, and fight as hard as each of these boys did, displays the characteristics of a champion.

The Rams were winners in but eight out of nineteen games, but quite a few of these games were lost by only one or two baskets. This is evident by the fact that Madison scored a total of 1078 points in regular season play, compared to 1074 total points scored by the opponents. Highlight games of the season were the Stratford game in which Madison led until the fourth quarter, the Overton game, and two exciting victories over rival Litton.

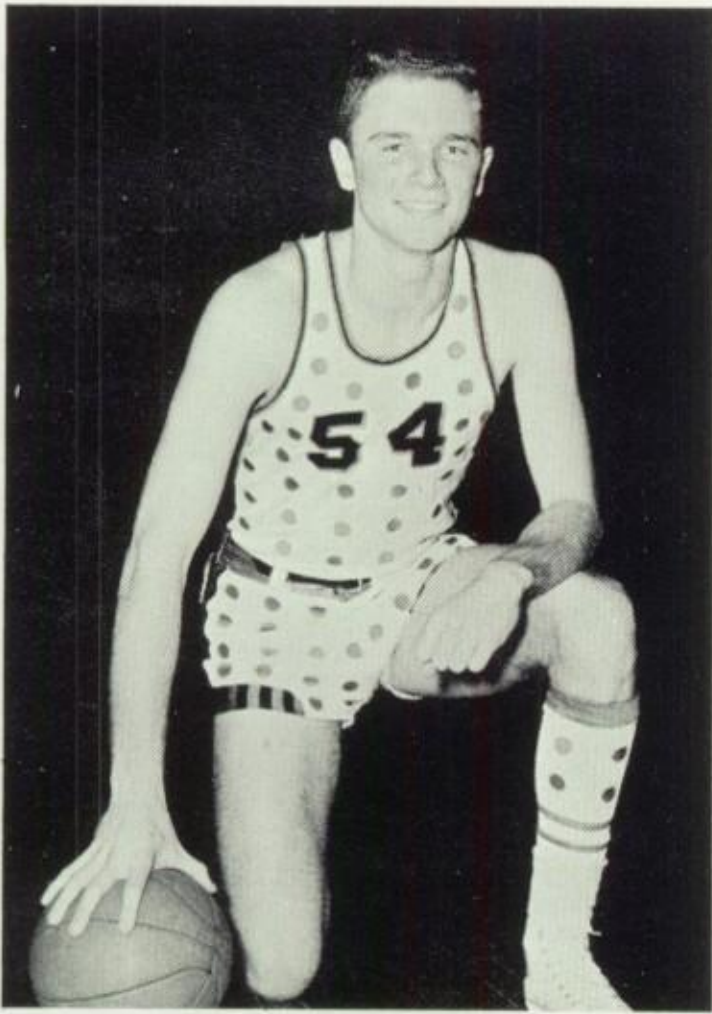

Bright spot of the season was Madison's Alex Beavers, voted NIL Most Valuable Player. Alex scored his thousandth point in the January 4, Joelton game and shot for a record-shattering average of 30.21 in the regular season. Starting forwards Sammy Wolfe and Steve Moore and guards Tommy Squires and Don Traylor gave strong, bolstering support.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

During the 1965-66 season, Madison's Ramettes intrigued the loyal Ram fans with exciting basketball action against many tough opponents. Although losing to some of the league's finest teams, the girls showed they had the spirit and the initiative to play well and win.

Led offensively by Becky Herod, with 335 points, scored during the regular season, the Orange and White had many close decisions. One included a 45-41 victory over neighboring Goodlettsville, after losing a previous contest 49-48. Other exciting games included two close wins over Bellevue by scores of 34-30 and 38-36. The Rams also played fine games against Joleton and Cumberland.

Although losing in the opening tournament game, the Ramettes look forward to next season and the return of the entire first team and other experienced players.
